

Volunteer Role Description

Blast Theory need a Brighton based volunteer with a keen interest in their work to play Day of The Figurines between 4th April and 27th April (including weekends) for up to 2 hours a day.

The purpose of the role - which can be done from any computer with internet access - is to track the game and play it according to tightly defined principles. You will also report your experiences as part of research on the project.

The right person has to be committed with an excellent eye for detail as you will have access to the game engine.

You will need to keep notes and to report back to Blast Theory on a daily basis after you have played.

You might be a gamer, a new media student, an artist, a sociologist or none of these.

This role needs half a day of training for which we can pay expenses.

How To Apply

Please send in a brief biog and CV about yourself including any experience that is relevant to ju@blasttheory.co.uk by Friday March 23rd

I will then contact a shortlist to meet on Monday March 26th

And contact the successful person on Wednesday March 28th, the half day training to be done on the afternoon of 2nd April.
